INTRODUCTION

“Public Health is what we do together as a society to ensure the conditions in which everyone can be healthy.” – Public Health 3.0¹

“The preconditions of everyone’s health are communal and systemic, and the field of public health must address them as such.” – APHA Public Health Code of Ethics²

Adams County Health Department (ACHD) officially opened its doors in January 2023 as the local governmental public health agency serving Adams County, Colorado. One of the first activities of ACHD was to collaborate closely with community to identify Adams County’s health priorities and to develop the 2025-2029 Community Health Improvement Plan (CHIP).

What is a Community Health Improvement Plan?

A Community Health Improvement Plan (CHIP) is a community-owned strategic plan to address community health needs and public health challenges. identified through a Community Health Assessment (CHA). The CHIP is a guiding light, embodying the long-range vision for the Adams County community. Local public health departments are required by the 2008 Colorado Public Health Act to build a CHIP as part of the Colorado Public Health Assessment and Planning System (CHAPS).

What is a CHIP?

- Community-centered plan to address Adams County’s health priorities for the next 5 years
- County-wide priorities with potential for local strategies and local action
- Guided by and implemented through collective action
- Addresses health concerns identified through the Adams County Community Health Assessment
- Required by the state of Colorado every 5 years

Who is involved in our CHIP?

- Created, guided, and implemented by a community-led coalition: the Adams County Thriving Communities Collective (ACTCC)
- Facilitated and evaluated by ACHD

We would like to thank the 44 partner community organizations and members for their active role in developing this plan by providing vital information, thought partnership, and guidance throughout the process. We are so thankful for the 131 community members who joined partner-led focus groups and the 1,333 community members who responded to our community survey. This plan better addresses community needs because of your partnership and leadership.

ACHD VISION STATEMENT

A community-led county where everyone has the opportunity to be healthy, valued, safe, and thriving.

What Are Our Community Health Improvement Priorities for Adams County?

After extensive community engagement, research, and discussion throughout 2023, the Adams County Thriving Communities Collective selected three priority areas for the 2025-2029 Community Health Improvement Plan: Access to Care, Economic Security, and Housing. The Adams County Board of Health approved these priority areas in January 2024.

Adams County 2025-2029 Community Health Improvement Plan—Priority Areas

Access to Care

Economic Security

Housing

How do we define Economic Security, Housing, and Access to Care?

Access to Care:

The ability of people to get timely health care they need that meets their individualized needs, including primary care, mental and behavioral care, urgent care, dental care, vision care, and specialty care.

Economic Security:

The ability of individuals, households, and communities to meet their basic and essential needs sustainably; these needs include food, shelter, clothing, health care, education information, livelihoods, and social protection.¹

Housing:

The spaces where people live and call home. A home can be an apartment, mobile home, house, shelter, car, hotel, condo, townhome, or a tiny home.

I am excited to present Adams County Health Department's inaugural Community Health Improvement Plan. The goals presented here are the result of thoughtful planning, honest conversation, and the hard work of so many in our community: residents, organizational partners, and County staff. By dedicating time, partnership, and resources to Economic Security, Housing, and Access to Care, we will improve the health and wellbeing of Adams County today and for years to come.

HOW DID WE DEVELOP THE CHIP PLAN?

Process Overview

The 2025-2029 CHIP grew from data and research shared in the 2022 Adams County Community Health Assessment \(CHA\) completed by Tri-County Health Department. The assessment included information about 13 health topics, topics like Substance Use and Health and Health and Education, and was the product of the third of eight phases that make up the Colorado Health Assessment and Planning System (CHAPS), a process required by the State of Colorado to ensure that Local Public Health Agencies continually addresses the community's health priorities in addition to providing core public health services.

With the initiation of the Adams County Thriving Communities Collective (ACTCC), ACHD facilitated this community group through Phases 4 to 6 of the CHAPS: listening to and speaking with community and local partners about health needs, understanding existing data, conducting root cause analyses, and identifying gaps and opportunities (Figure 1, page 6). In January 2024, the Adams County Board of Health approved the three ACTCC-recommended priority areas: Access to Care, Economic Security, and Housing. Beginning in February 2024, the ACTCC formed a work group for each priority, and each started to focus on understanding existing work, community (not just health department) capacity, and logical first steps to tackle these broad health priorities. By systematically gathering and synthesizing information, conducting literature reviews and creating logic models, and further prioritizing and refining (Figure 2, page 6), the ACTCC has identified goal areas, tactics, and activities for the 2025 work plans of the CHIP priority areas.

Community Engagement & Partnership

We engaged with community partners, colleagues, and community members throughout the process. To help inform the 2022 CHA, the qualitative data-gathering process included 2021 survey data from 1,259 people living in and/or serving Adams County and input from seven focus groups. We conducted additional surveys in 2023 with 84 partners and 1,333 community members, as well as coordinated additional 16 focus groups with the support and thoughtful partnership of local organizations with existing trusted relationships with the community. These data were synthesized and presented to the ACTCC for discussion and further prioritization. Together, facilitated by ACHD, ACTCC members prioritized the initial 13 health topics down to three health topics: Access to Care, Economic Security, and Housing.

ADAMS COUNTY THRIVING COMMUNITIES COLLECTIVE

The ACTCC, first established in July 2023 as the Adams County Community Health Improvement Coalition, is the community-based decision-making group behind the CHIP. The ACTCC currently consists of 41 organizations and over 70 people who come together monthly to collectively address our community health priorities. In addition to organizational partners, the ACTCC has included seven community members. ACHD recognizes and values lived experience and community leadership and pays community members for their time and expertise. Once the three priority areas were approved by the Board of Health in January 2024, ACTCC members opted into one of the three work groups or chose to participate in regular, larger ACTCC meetings (Figures 3 and 4). The ACHD Public Health Planning and Evaluation

Team facilitated and coordinated the groups, supported by subject matter experts in each group. These internal-to-the-County subject matter experts—the Internal Planning and Advisory Group—regularly convened to advise activities and planning, and coordinate between work groups.

The work of the CHIP will be completed by the ACTCC through a collective impact approach. In this method, organizations come together to purposefully align efforts, leveraging their collective work for greater impact. The 2025 work plans bring together work under each priority area across ACTCC member organizations, including four County departments. Work is and will continue to be codified through Memorandums of Understanding and formal agreements.
